

OMNILINK'S GANG CONTROL SOLUTION

Keep Gang Members Apart

Gang activity is a significant challenge for law enforcement nationwide. Urban and suburban communities everywhere are struggling to control the situation with conventional tactics and technology.

The Omnilink Solution

Omnalink offers a unique gang control solution that helps law enforcement track and manage known gang members in their community. This is the only solution that can be used to keep gang members away from each other in real time.

How it Works

Using the Omnilink solution, you can keep gang members away from specified addresses and from each other as well. An authorized user can set up a mobile exclusion zone around gang members wearing the Omnilink device. If the gang members come within specified proximity of each other, anywhere, the system detects it and notifies appropriate monitoring officers. With this technology officers can enforce an order to keep known gang members away from each other and from locations known to be linked with gang activity.

The Omnilink gang control solution offers an additional approach for law enforcement to better manage the gang situations in their jurisdiction. With increased surveillance and supervision, gang members are more likely to comply with court orders. Additionally, for gang members this technology provides a way out of the gang environment while still saving face with peers.
